Peter Van Elsuwege. From Soviet republics to EU member states: a legal and political assessment of the Baltic states' accession to the EU Volume 1-2

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements ................................................................. xiii
List of Tables ........................................................................... xv
List of Abbreviations ............................................................. xvii

Introduction .............................................................................. xxi

PART ONE

THE BALTIC STATES IN EUROPE: HISTORICAL,
LEGAL AND GEOPOLITICAL CONTEXT

Chapter One A Struggle for Dominance: From the Northern
Crusades to the Russian Empire ................................................. 3
§ 1. Early History ............................................................................. 3
§ 2. Livonian Wars and the Period of Swedish
Domination ....................................................................................... 6
§ 3. The Changing Balance of Power: Russia's Westward
Expansion ......................................................................................... 7

Chapter Two The Creation of Independent Baltic
Republics ......................................................................................... 11
§ 1. National Awakening in the 19th Century ......................... 11
§ 2. The Establishment of Baltic National Movements ......... 12
§ 3. The First World War and the Wars of Independence ... 14
§ 4. The Conclusion of Peace Treaties and the Recognition of Independence ...........................................................................17

Chapter Three 1920-1940: The Years of Independence ....... 19
§ 1. The Era of Liberal Democracy (1920-1926/1934) ......... 19
§ 2. The Establishment of Authoritarian Regimes
(1926/1934–1940) ..............................................................................26

Chapter Four Incorporation into the Soviet Union ............... 29
§ 1. The Events of 1939-1940: The Molotov-Ribbentrop
Pact and its Consequences .........................................................29
CONTENTS

§ 2. Reactions to the Incorporation of the Baltic States: the Question of Recognition ........................................... 34
§ 3. The Baltic States as Soviet Republics: Consequences of Sovietisation ....................................................... 37

§ 1. Environmental Protests and Popular Fronts ....................... 41
§ 2. Power to the Republics: Declarations on Sovereignty and New Language Legislation .................................... 43
§ 3. A Radicalisation of Positions: Challenging the Legality of the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact ........................................ 45
§ 5. Reaction of the European Economic Community and its Member States in the Light of the Internal Crisis in the Soviet Union ............................................................................... 51

Chapter Six Defining the International Legal Status of the Baltic States: State Continuity or State Succession? .......... 59
§ 1. The Specificity of the Baltic Case ...................................... 59
§ 2. Recognition of the Baltic Thesis on State Continuity .......... 60
§ 3. Consequences of the Baltic Thesis on State Continuity .................................................................................... 66

Conclusions The Determinant Role of the Baltic States’ History and International Legal Status ............................... 87

PART TWO

THE LEGAL FRAMEWORK OF RELATIONS BETWEEN THE EC/EU AND THE BALTIC STATES BEFORE ACCESSION TO THE EU

Chapter One The Incremental Making of the EC's Ostpolitik: Towards a Policy of Differentiation ........................................ 95
§ 1. EEC-CEEC Relations in the Era of Change ....................... 95
§ 2. Differentiation of the Community's Unilateral Instruments and Bilateral Agreements ................................. 97
CONTENTS

Chapter Two   Integrating the Baltic States in the EC/EU’s External Policies ................................................................. 101
 § 1. Possible Scenarios and First Discussions ....................... 101
 § 2. The 'First Generation' of Bilateral Agreements: Trade and Co-operation Agreements ...................................................... 103
 § 3. From Trade and Co-operation Agreements to Free Trade Agreements ........................................................................ 108
 § 4. The Free Trade Agreements: An Intermediate Step Towards Association ................................................................. 114

Chapter Three   Catching up with the Countries of Central and Eastern Europe ................................................................. 129
 § 1. The Conclusion of Europe Agreements ............................ 129
 § 2. Substantive Provisions of the Europe Agreements: A Legal Analysis ................................................................. 138

Chapter Four   Consequences for the Internal Legal Order of the Baltic States ................................................................. 157
 § 1. The Constitutional Framework for the Implementation of the Europe Agreements ................................................................. 157
 § 2. Approximation of Laws: Obligations, Obstacles and Consequences ........................................................................ 170

Chapter Five   The Emergence of an EU Policy towards the Baltic Sea Region: Characteristics and Limitations ............. 177
 § 1. The European Commission as a 'Member' of the Council of the Baltic Sea States ................................................................. 177
 § 2. Initiatives for a Union Approach towards the Baltic Sea Region ........................................................................ 181

Chapter Six   Explaining the Development of EC/EU-Baltic Relations: Internal and External Factors ............................... 187
 § 1. Baltic Lobbying and Nordic Pressure ........................................ 188
 § 2. The 'Russia' Factor ........................................................................ 190

Conclusions   The Baltic States and the European Union: Assessment of the Evolving Relationship ............................... 193
PART THREE
THE BALTIC STATES AND THE EU’S PRE-ACCESSION STRATEGIES

Chapter One  The Legal Framework of EU Enlargement .... 199
§ 1. The Formal Accession Procedure .............................................199
§ 2. The Conditions for Accession ..............................................203

Chapter Two  The Introduction of a 'Pre-Accession Strategy'
§ 1. The Structured Dialogue ...................................................223
§ 2. Preparing Entry into the Internal Market ..............................225
§ 3. Financial Support and Opening of Community Programmes ........226
§ 4. Intra-regional Co-operation and the Promotion of Good Neighbourliness .........................................................227

Chapter Three  The Dilemmas of Differentiation between the Candidate Countries .........................................................231
§ 1. The December 1995 Madrid European Council and the Debate on a Strategy for Enlargement ..................................................231
§ 3. Agenda 2000 and the Commission Opinions on the Applications for Membership .........................................................235

Chapter Four  The 'Enhanced Pre-Accession Strategy': Reconciling Inclusion and Differentiation .............................................253
§ 1. EU Enlargement as a 'Comprehensive, Inclusive and Ongoing Process': Softening the Consequences of Differentiation .................................................................253
§ 2. The Instruments of the 'Enhanced Pre-Accession Strategy' ..........255
§ 3. The Effectiveness of the EU’s Pre-accession Conditionality ..........268

Chapter Five  Preparing for Enlargement: Reconciling Widening and Deepening .........................................................289
CONTENTS

§ 1. The Helsinki European Council: A Reorientation of the Strategy for Enlargement .............................................289
§ 2. The Nice Treaty: An Imperfect but Decisive Step Towards Enlargement ..........................................................291

Conclusions Characteristics of the EU’s Enlargement Methodology and Pre-Accession Strategies .......................... 299

PART FOUR

THE ACCESSION NEGOTIATIONS: A POST-FACTUM ANALYSIS

Chapter One  The Legal Framework of EU Accession Negotiations .................................................................307
§ 1. The Scope of Accession Negotiations ..................................................307
§ 2. Structures, Institutions and Procedures of the Accession Negotiations ..................................................310

Chapter Two Accession Negotiations in Practice: The Case of the Baltic States ..................................................313
§ 1. Starting with the 'Easy Chapters' ..................................................................................................................313
§ 2. The Chapter on External Relations: Illustrating the Paradoxes of the Negotiating Process ..................313
§ 3. The Internal Market Acquis: Illustrating the Limits of Differentiation ..................................................319
§ 4. Taxation and Energy: Tackling the Strategic Chapters ........................................................................ 325
§ 5. The Chapter of Justice and Home Affairs and the Kaliningrad Compromise: Illustrating the Importance of the Russian Dimension ..........................................................335
§ 6. The Enlargement 'End Game': Discussions on Agriculture and the Final Financial Package ............ 346

Chapter Three Drafting the Treaty of Accession ................. 355
§ 1. Structure and Legal Nature of the Accession Treaty .... 355
§ 2. Safeguard Measures and the Role of the Commission in the Post-accession Period ........................... 359
§ 3. The Final Step: Ratification of the Accession Treaty ................................................................. 370
CONTENTS

Conclusions The Treaty of Accession and Differentiation in the EU ................................................................. 393

PART FIVE

THE IMPACT OF EU ENLARGEMENT ON THE TRIANGULAR RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE EU, RUSSIA AND THE BALTIC STATES

Chapter One Towards a New Approach in EU-Russia Relations?........................................................................ 399
§ 1. From Common Strategy to Common Spaces ................................................. 399
§ 2. A Reorientation of the Northern Dimension ............................................. 414

Chapter Two Remaining Challenges in Baltic-Russian Relations ............................................................................ 421
§ 1. The Integration of Russian-speaking Minorities ...................................... 421
§ 2. The Question of Border Delimitation ...................................................... 449
§ 3. The Kaliningrad Transit Issue ................................................................. 454

Chapter Three The Role of the Baltic States in the EU’s Relations with Russia .................................................... 463
§ 1. The Legacy of the Soviet Period ............................................................. 463
§ 2. The Question of Energy Security ............................................................ 475

Conclusions EU Enlargement as a "Deus ex Machina"? ...... 483

PART SIX

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONSEQUENCES OF EU ENLARGEMENT: DEVELOPMENTS AT THE NATIONAL AND EUROPEAN LEVEL

Chapter One The Adaptation of the Baltic States' Legal Systems ........................................................................ 489
§ 1. A Continuous Revision of Constitutional Provisions . . . 489
§ 2. The Scrutiny Role of the Baltic States’ National Parliaments .................. 507